SEMINARS ON 'MONTANA'S ECONOMIC OUTLOOK'
SCHEDULED IN FOUR MONTANA COMMUNITIES;
FIRST WILL BE IN HELENA ON JAN. 19

MISSOULA--

The first in a series of four seminars to be conducted in various Montana communities on the theme, "Montana's Economic Outlook," will be presented Jan. 19 in Helena under the sponsorship of the University of Montana Bureau of Business and Economic Research (BBER) and UM School of Business Administration in cooperation with the Helena Chamber of Commerce.

The Helena program will be conducted twice Jan. 19 at the Colonial Motor Hotel & Convention Center. The first session will be from 10 a.m.-noon and the second presentation will be from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

The seminars, designed to bring the state's economy into perspective, with emphasis on the prospects for the near future, may be of interest to those involved in government, business and labor.

Seminar speakers in Helena will include Maxine C. Johnson, BBER director and professor of management at UM, and Dr. Paul E. Polzin, BBER research associate and associate professor of management on the UM campus. Dr. Rudyard B. Goode, UM professor of finance, and former dean of the UM School of Business Administration, who is president-elect of the Missoula Area Chamber of Commerce, will be program moderator.

At both the morning and evening sessions, Johnson will discuss "Montana's Economy: Changing Course in the Mid-70's?" and Johnson and Polzin will answer several specific questions posed by Goode--How does Montana relate to the national economy?, How big is government in Montana? and How important is tourism to the state?--and other queries from the audience.

There is a $10 registration fee for those attending either the morning or evening program. The fee may be sent to the BBER in the School of Business Administration, University of Montana, Missoula, Mont. 59812. Those who plan to attend should indicate whether they wish to participate in the morning or evening program.

Registration for the Helena program will be at 9:30 a.m. Jan. 19 at the Colonial.

Remaining seminars in the series will be Jan. 21 in Missoula, Jan. 25 in Billings and Jan. 27 in Great Falls.

Additional information about the series may be obtained from the BBER at the University in Missoula. The Helena Chamber of Commerce Office also has additional information about the presentations in the Capital City.
